

4. Foster Care Success Story (in the biological mom's words) -Two Alicias Link to Blog

They arrested me in a hospital, and it was the best thing that ever happened to me.

I'd been on the streets since I was 12, and meth became how I coped.

By the time my son Christopher came along, I was living in a field and still using.

One night his fever hit 103, and I fell asleep at his bedside in the ER.

When I woke up, the police were there - they'd found meth in his system, and they took him.

Losing him shattered me.

Four months in jail nearly broke me - the hardest part was not knowing where my son was.

But that loss is what finally got me sober, and this time, I wasn't doing it alone.

A Greater Hope stepped in, and my social worker there, Linda, fought for me at every turn.

When the county said no to visits with my mom in Utah, Linda pushed until she got them approved.

After 205 days, Christopher finally came home.

And the foster mom A Greater Hope had placed him with? Her name is Alicia, just like mine.

So now my son has two Alicias who love him, and she's become our family.

That's why I can say getting arrested saved us both.

I've been clean ever since.

If you do the work, you can get your kids back too - and I promise you, life gets better.
