

6. Kinship Care Success Stories- Mariella & Penepole: Link to Blog

Penelope is 66 years old.

She figured she was done raising kids but now she's raising all seven of her grandchildren, keeping them together instead of letting them end up in foster care.

She gets around with a cane, so something as simple as a grocery run or picking the kids up from school takes a lot more out of her.

And she's not alone in this-in San Bernardino County, about 1 in every 128 people is a grandparent raising a grandchild.

When school started back up, buying clothes for seven growing kids just wasn't something she could swing.

That's where Homecoming, A Greater Hope's kinship program, came in.

We've been walking alongside High Desert families like Penelope's since 2022.

We helped her get connected to Section 8 housing, plus a program that gave her $200 per child to cover school clothes.

If you're raising a grandchild, niece, nephew, or sibling, you don't have to figure it out on your own.
